Things we love ...

Adam Lowry and Eric Ryan, founders of natural, eco-friendly and sleek cleaning products line Method Home (www.methodhome.com), take us into their conscious yet cool world.

ERIC LOVES

"The A2B Electric Bike has the heart of a bicycle and the soul of a scooter, allowing you to ditch the car for a more fun and eco-friendly commute." $2,699, www.ultramotor.com

"Tyler Brülé's latest magazine, Monocle, is Foreign Policy meets Vanity Fair. It satisfies my wanderlust with a globalist perspective on international affairs, culture and design." $55 for six month subscription, www.monocle.com

"Since you will spend an average of three years on the toilet, why not upgrade to first class with a heated seat, and a nice clean wash? Using less toilet paper keeps more trees in the forest." $250-$950, Swash Toilet by Brondell

"Solage resort, designed by renowned Napa architect Howard Backen, is the perfect marriage of style and substance, with luxurious design and eco-friendly policies. Each room comes with two beach cruisers for exploring the local wineries." www.solagecalistoga.com

"Dead Sea minerals and a heavy dose of organic carrot juice. This personal care line gets you excited about vegetables." Yes-To-Carrots scrub, $10, www.walgreens.com

"Originally designed in 1948, the Eames Rocker is a timeless favorite that works with any décor." $479, www.dwr.com

"Swedish Fish: They're neither Swedish nor fish, but this candy is my staple for long-haul flights."
